Calvin Wright

“God will wipe away every tear from their eyes.”

Revelation 21:4

Calvin Wright, son of the late Inez and Charles Wright, Sr., was born Saturday, January 7, 1950, in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. He transitioned from this earthly journey on Wednesday, May 2, 2012, in Carlisle, Pennsylvania, with his loving family by his side.

Reared and educated in Steelton, Pennsylvania, he attended and graduated from Steelton-Highspire High School.

At a young age, having accepted the Lord as his personal Savior Jesus Christ, he joined the Monumental African Methodist Episcopal Church in Steelton. He and his siblings were raised with Christian values. In his later years, he united with the United Baptist Church of Harrisburg.

He was a former employee of Fruehauf Corporation, Polyclinic Medical Center and Giant Foods. He also worked at Jazzland during his leisure.

He was a former member of Cyrene Lodge #169, Steelton, IBPOE of W. He was a former coach of the Steelton Midget Football League. He was also the President of the Triple Sevens Club.

Calvin was an avid Steel High Rollers fan as well as Pittsburgh Steelers fan. He loved to travel with his brother Charlie anywhere no matter how far the distance. He was a comedian in his own right.

As Calvin's health began to decline, he went to live with his brother, Dan, and sister-in-law, Dolly Wright. Both became his caretakers until he resided at the Church of God Home in Carlisle.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his wife, Mattie Wright, and his brother, Jennings Jackson, Sr. He leaves to cherish his memory his children, Jeffrey Cox, Justin Wright, Taylor Waller; four grandchildren; one sister, Jacqueline V. Logan; three brothers, James Jackson, Sr., Dan Wright, Sr., and Charles Wright, Jr.; one aunt, Ardelia Johnson; one goddaughter, Tonya Holloway; a special friend, Mattie Watson; and host of nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.
