“ Cee we met at 501 mall road I was in solitary on suicide watch. Out of all the women there that I knew u were a stranger and u stood at my door and talked to me for hours Every day. U ripped ya books in half and slid em under my door u called my family with your calls and ripped a flyer off the wall n showed me how to make an envelope with deodorant how to print a stamp off another envelope and broke a pencil so I could write my kids and it made it to them too!! I remember being so happy when u got out even if I wasn't. I told u i haven't heard from my children and u took that to heart with u when u left my first Phone call home was that day and my daughter said “mom sum lite skin woman name cee came here to check if me and my brother were ok” that is when I knew I'd love u forever! I'm a mess I'm shocked and having a tuff time grasping this lil sis. U did several things for me only a true soljette would do and u helped me change my life forever for the better u never spoke on it to anyone and it still remains our secret I will never forget u said u are a good person we gotta get u out of this mess I got u Stormey I LOVE U !!!

“ CeCe you were the best sister I could ask for. You taught me how to defend myself, play the game, not to be picky, and just to have confidence with everything I do. You are the one that helped build me into the person I am today. I remember one time you and me was at the store an I wanted these green army men toys. They were all in this bag that were for sale and you seen how much I wanted them so without me even noticing you grabbed them for me. When we got to the car and you showed them to me i was the happiest kid that day. You really made things happen for me and was there for everything. I remember another time when someone was picking on me and getting ready to steal my ball and you came outta nowhere an beat him up and got my ball back. You are a warrior CeCe, that day you taught me not to take no crap from anyone. I love you so much CeCe words can't describe how I feel. Rest in peace CeCe you are the best sister in the world.
