“ Just last summer, my husband and I moved into the little development where Dan lived. Folks here rarely use their front doors, because it's easier to go out the back to check mail or take a car trip. So, I only had the pleasure of saying hello to Dan twice. He was on his way somewhere both times, but he took the time to say hello and shake my hand, and I was touched by that. I was also blessed to hear him play piano one warm, sunny day last year. It was a gift from Heaven. I wish I had had more time to get to know Dan. I understand from others that he endured a terrible sadness, and I'm thankful that that's past for him and he's now with his Saviour and loved ones who have left this stage of our lives before him. I pray for good memories and peace for all who loved Dan.
