Eunice Elizabeth Hill Wright, daughter of the late Horton and Anna Lane Brooks, was born Saturday, June 23, 1923, in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania. Eunice passed away Sunday, October 7, 2012, while at the Colonial Park Care Center, Harrisburg.

Eunice received her education in the Harrisburg Public School System. Throughout her life, she worked various jobs, but she was primarily a loving, caring mother. She was godmother to numerous people in the Harrisburg area. Eunice had several hobbies. She loved to cook, raise houseplants and listen to Gospel and Blues music. Her favorite song was "Amazing Grace," and her favorite artist was B.B. King. When she became too ill to pursue her other interests, she became an avid reader of the Patriot News and filled her idle time with watching television, especially, wrestling, "Roller Derby," and "Animal Planet."

Eunice was preceded in death by her husband, William David Wright; one daughter, Neville Louise Hill; one brother, Carroll L. Brooks; four sisters, Appalonia Walker, Hortense Slade, Barbara Brooks and Fredonia Brooks. She leaves to cherish special memories seven children, Clyde Eugene Hill, Pearlina Elizabeth Hill Patterson, Fredonia Marie Hill Ware, William David Hill, Horton Paul Hill, Dabney Hill, Darnell Hill Ervin; one brother, Theartic Brooks of Providence, Rhode Island; fifteen grandchildren, forty great-grandchildren; and a host of other relatives and friends.
