Michael Loved God and Family

Michael Oscar Hetes was born Friday, November 2, 1951, in Harrisburg, PA, son of the late Andrew P. Hetes and the late Anna B. Szili.

Michael's educational path included graduation from William Penn High School and Harrisburg Area Community College with an Associate's Degree in Arts & Business Administration.

Michael was united in Christian fellowship with Turner Memorial Missionary Baptist Church, Steelton, PA, under the pastorate of Reverend Richard J. Hampton.

Michael completed the UPMC Chaplaincy Program and participated with the Teamsters Union, Nathaniel Gadsden's Writer's Workshop as well as volunteered with the Salvation Army Christmas Program and the Open Stage Theater, Harrisburg. Much of Michael's leisure time was spent reading, listening to country music, playing yahtzee and chess. He also taught the children how to play chess and helped them with their math. “ I got to know Uncle Mike as a kid growing up in the 70's. He was my youngest uncle, and always seemed to be laughing or joking. The last time I saw him was at the 2005 Family reunion. . His voice.... his voice has always stuck with me through the years; so unique and inviting, so memorable . . . May you rest in peace.

“ I met Michael when he was 21. He was a walking dichotomy of style with long hair, jeans and wing tip shoes. I thought, this person has got to be interesting. He truly was. RIP Michael.

“ One of my fondest memories of Michael was going out to the Amity house for family home evening. He always ordered the super sundae and it was SO humongous! I wondered as a child where he put it all, as he always finished it. He sure did love his mint chocolate chip ice cream.
