“ So sorry for your loss. Man was a good guy with a beautiful smile. I saw him the night before he was taken away. We exchanged numbers and he wanted me to check out his poetry. I'm a local author and would love to try to get his work published for his family. God Bless you all.

“ She misses you Nate. I think what hurts the most, which I have no answer for is when she ask. " who's gonna be my daddy now" I so wish I can give her just the little she ask for. You taking and picking her up from bus stop. Taking obsessive amounts of pictures and videos. Kissing her every night and telling her she is the best princess ever. She is so young and you are going to miss so much. But I promise to make sure she knows you are with her every journey in her life. For 10 years, we had every issue and problem there could be. The best thing we ever did was make her. So thank you!!! So just like you were the best dad you could be for our daughter here,. I have no doubt that you are being the best dad in heaven with.....tears as I remember.

You are being missed!!!!

“ I remember this one time when we were young and at a cookout on Curtin street at pop pops house and dad (Rich) and man where in the garage behind the house. We were all eating and dancing and Man comes running down the alley and dad is behind him. lol... They looked scared. Guess they should have left the hornets alone.... All the memories I have growing up will stay with me for a lifetime. My family is the best, the color of my skin never mattered to them and till this day we are family. I love you Mann and everything you were. We all make mistakes in life and we learn from them to be better people, he was well on his path to the "better days" is what we called them. I love you and remember we have a standing date. You to be on my couch with the crown and the Cowboys jersey..not ROMO though... I'll be waiting for yah.. Rest now and tell everyone I love them. Don't let mom lecture u too long.. Give em a kiss for me I'll be there one day. Rest in Paradise...
